

1st ASEM-Workshop

Advanced Electron Microscopy

April 7th-8th, 2011

Graz University of Technology

Scope of the Workshop

The purpose of the workshop is to create an informal platform for those who are interested in electron microscopy and its applications in modern science and technology. Scientists from all fields of microscopy in biological sciences, materials and physical sciences are welcome.

One goal is to provide an Austrian wide discussion platform for state of the art work in electron microscopy done at the various research organisations as well in industrial based research.

Another important goal is to give young scientists the possibility to present their work in the form of contributed talks.

The conference language is English.

The Workshop is supported by

Accommodation

There are several hotels and pensions available for the participants (see below, within 5 mins walking distance from the workshop site).

Please book your accommodation by yourself.

Registration & Submission

Since the costs will be covered by subsidies and sponsors, we can refrain from charging fees for participants, who are members of the ASEM.

For this reason, we ask all potential participants for a binding registration via email until April 1st, 2011: secretariat@felmi-zfe.at

We will only accept registered participants.

Besides the two invited lectures on Thursday evening we will only accept oral contributions (preferentially by young scientists) with a maximum length of 15 minutes including discussion.

Please submit a short abstract in English (max. 1 page) together with your registration.

In order to promote contributions from students the Board of the ASEM decided to support contributions of students supporting the accommodation costs for one night (max. 80 EUR) and travel costs (railway ticket, 2.class).
