Mr Strehlow’s Films - Synopsis

Mr Strehlow’s Films was produced in Australia and televised on SBS TV on July 14 2001. The film tracks the life and work of controversial anthropologist, TGH Strehlow, his legacy in the collection he amassed and in particular rare and valuable films - sacred to Aboriginal people of Central Australia. Aspects of the collection are controversial and recently have been placed for public auction.
This is a documentary of an extraordinary individual whose work has contributed to preserving some of the most significant examples of Aboriginal heritage known.
